

BPL needs a longer study time to figure out if it is a viable alternative to what is in use today. I have cable modem and also have DSL available in my area a third choice would make no sense. If BPL is Started would it not styme these other technologies and possible cause a fallback in what are better technologies.